THE FASTEST WAY TO YOUR COURSE LITERATURE

FIND YOUR COURSE LITERATURE

Do you have a literature list for your lecture or seminar? The following tips will help you to find the full texts in the Library WISO/BWL and the UHH library system.

1. BOOKS

A publication is a book when you have a place of publication and/or a publisher.

Example:

Stock, J. H. & Watson, M. W. (2018). Introduction to econometrics (3. ed.). Boston, Mass. [u.a.]: Pearson

- (1) Go to Katalogplus: katalogplus.sub.uni-hamburg.de
- (2) Search the author's last name and one or two words from the book title (Selection: All fields).
- (3) Check the availability using the filters on the right:
 - “Restrict to E-Resources”: The electronic versions of the publication are displayed;
 - “Location (print media)” (selection: FB Wirtschaftswissenschaften or FB Sozialwissenschaften): You will see the print editions. Click on the book title, look to the right in the “Availability” box, and note the shelfmark.

Pay attention to the name “Lehrbuchsammlung” (Textbook collection). The shelfmark begins with “LBS”. You can borrow these titles for four weeks.

2. BOOK CHAPTER

A publication is a book chapter when you have an “in” and a place and/or publisher of the book.

Example:

Gedenk, K. (2011). Rabatte im Vertrieb: Promotion-Rabatte für den Handel. In C. Homburg & J. Wieseke (Eds.), Handbuch Vertriebsmanagement (pp. 142-158). Wiesbaden: Gabler.

Some book chapters are also included in Katalogplus:

- (1) Go to Katalogplus: katalogplus.sub.uni-hamburg.de
- (2) Enter the last name of the chapter author(s) and words from the chapter title (search field: All fields).
- (3) In the “Article” tab result list, search for the correct entry. Click “about publication”.

The catalog will display the book containing the chapter. Look to the right in the “Availability” box, and note the shelfmark.

If you cannot find the chapter, search for the book.

3. JOURNAL ARTICLE

A publication is a journal article when you have a journal title and the year and issue number.

Example:

Heckenhahn, J., & Drupp, M.A. (2024). Relative price changes of ecosystem services: Evidence from Germany. Environmental and Resource Economics, 87(3), 833–880.

- (1) Open a search engine, e.g. Google.
- (2) Enter the author's last name and the exact title of the article in quotation marks. This searches for the exact phase, i.e. heckenhahn “Relative price changes of ecosystem services”
- (3) In the result list, the links lead
 - to the publisher's website (e.g. Springerlink) and to the article
 - freely available as “Open Access” or
 - with licensed access (for this it is important that your laptop is in the internet using eduroam WLAN (campus) or the VPN client (off campus));
 - to the document server (e.g. Econstor) and to an early version of the article as a working paper, which is often freely available (Open Access).

If you have not found a full text via Google, check if the UHH library system has another way of accessing the journal. You can find help in our flyer “The fastest way finding journals”.
