EASY GUIDE: FIND JOURNALS AT THE LIBRARY

HOW CAN I FIND JOURNALS?

Quickly verify, if University of Hamburg members have access to print or electronic journals by checking three catalogues.

1. SEARCH FOR THE JOURNAL TITLE IN KATALOG PLUS.

Katalog^{plus} includes the holdings of print and electronic journals that are subscribed or licensed in the University of Hamburg library system.

- (1) Go to Katalog^{plus}: katalogplus.sub.uni-hamburg.de
- (2) Enter the journal title in quotation marks.
Select the “Series” field, i.e. “international journal of industrial organization”.
- (3) Choose your preferred format:
 - The “Location” filter displays print journal holdings available at the selected library.
 - The “Restrict to E-Resources” filter shows journals that are available in a digital version at UHH.
- (4) Check the availability of years and issues:
 - When working with the printed edition, be sure to find out which volumes are held in each library and what the access conditions are.
 - When working with the electronic version, check the publication years and use the corresponding link to go directly to the journal.

2. CHECK THE EZB FOR THE DIGITAL VERSION OF THE JOURNAL.

The Electronic Journals Library (EZB) lists more than 286,000 titles, of which 83,300 are openly accessible in full text (Open Access).

- (1) Go to EZB: <https://ezb.ur.de/ezeit/search.phtml?bibid=SUBHH&colors=7&lang=en>
- (2) Search for the journal title.
- (3) Review the results. If multiple data sources are offered, go to the detailed view and check the licensed publication years in the “Online Availability: Fulltexts available” field to see which years are accessible to University of Hamburg members.

3. USE THE ZDB TO CHECK IF THE JOURNAL EXISTS AT ALL.

The German Union Catalogue of Serials (ZDB) records more than 22 million holdings from German and Austrian libraries.

- (1) Go to ZDB: zdb-katalog.de
- (2) Search for the journal title by placing it in quotation marks, i.e. “international journal of industrial organization”.
- (3) Open the printed version from the search results. In the “More Title Information” section, you will find details about the journal, such as title changes.
In the “Holdings” tab, you will see a list of libraries that have the journal in their collections.
