Universität Hamburg
DER FORSCHUNG | DER LEHRE | DER BILDUNG

Faculty
of business, Economics and Social Sciences

Hamburg Political Science Seminar Series- HPS³

Winter Semester 2026/2027

The HPS³ Seminar Series features international speakers presenting cutting-edge research in all subfields of political science .

We invite everyone interested to attend! No prior registration is needed.

Wednesdays 4:30 -6:00 p.m. -

Allende-Platz 1 – Von-Melle-Park 9 – VMP 9 S27

 Deviations to the regular schedule are marked*

WED 28.10.26
Maarja Lühiste (Newcastle University)
Title: Committee Assignments as Career Insurance: Gender, Expertise and Nominations in Estonia

WED 11.11.26
Janne Tukiainen (University of Turku)
Title: Class, Social Mobility, and Voting in Democratizing and Industrializing England

WED 25.11.26
Stuart Turnbull-Dugarte (University of Southampton)
Title: Facts against femonationalism: how to stop far-right normalisation

TUE * 01.12.26
 6:00- 7:30 p.m. in VMP9 S07
Carla Winston (The University of Melbourne)
Title: The Evolution of Transitional Justice: The Role of Creativity in Structure-Agent Coevolution

WED 02.12.26
Benjamin Gerhard Engst (Norwegian University of Science and Technology)
Title: Trust without commitment: The Trust Differential and Support for Judicial Independence

WED 09.12.26
Mark A. Kayser (Hertie School)
Title: Why are Rural Regions Conservative? A Natural Experiment on Diversity and Voting from Poland

WED 06.01.27
Ruth Dassonneville (KU Leuven)
Title: What Images are in their Heads? Analyzing Voters' Perceptions of Party-Social Group Linkages

WED 13.01.27
Despina Alexiadou (University of Strathclyde Glasgow)
Title: Masculinized inclusion: Gender and Class in Democratic Parliaments

WED 20.01.27
Hanna Bäck (Lund University)
Title: Elite Rhetoric and Mass Animosity. Affective Polarization in Multiparty Systems

WED 27.01.27
Charlotte Cavaille (Toulouse School of Economics)
Title: Is High-Skilled Immigration Universally More Popular? Evidence from Singapore

Organizers:
Universität Hamburg
Political Science

WE INVITE EVERYONE INTERESTED TO ATTEND