

Call for CGG Workshop for Doctoral Students

The Research Area 2 of the CGG (Chair: Prof. Dr. Birgit Pfau-Effinger) organises a CGG Workshop for Doctoral Students

"Social and Political Change" with Professor Orly Benjamin, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Bar-Ilan University, Tel Aviv and Dr. Katarina Sarter, Faculty of Business and Society, University of South Wales, UK

Tuesday, October 17, 2017, 14:00-16:00.

Professor Orly Benjamin (PhD) is an Associate Professor at the Sociology and Anthropology department and at the Gender Studies program at Bar-Ilan University. Her research focusses on close relationships; the poverty of employed women and job insecurity including its relations to marriage, precarious employment and gender; gender, sexuality and ambivalent belonging as well as the consequences of marketisations of social services on the clients and workers.

Dr. Katharina Sarter is a research fellow at the University of South Wales. She works at the intersection of political science, sociology, and public administration. Her main areas of interest are in the field of public and social policy. She worked on policy-making in multi-level perspective, analysed the implementation of public policies in comparative perspective, Europeanisation through case law, and equalities. She is especially interested in the interaction of economic and social policy goals in public policies and employment and employment policies.

We invite Doctoral Students to present their dissertaton concept or the concept for an article in an international journal and receive comments from Orly Benjamin and Katharina Sarter. If you are interested, please send us an abstract of 250-300 words until October 6 (to Frauke.Johannsen@wiso.uni-hamburg.de). We will inform you until October 9 if you are selected for the presentation.

With best wishes,

Birgit Pfau-Effinger
